WEST SEEKS SPECIAL WHITNEY PROSECUTOR

Hull Threatens Slackers Under American Neutrality Act

WAR DEALERS WARNED BY OFFICIAL

Criminal Prosecution For Non-Registered Firms Is Proposed

ICKES 'EXPLAINS'

Remarks About Selling Of Oil Misunderstood, Declares Leader

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Secretary Hull threatened today criminal prosecution of firms and individuals handling arms, ammunition, and implements of war who thus far have failed to register with the government as prescribed by the neutrality act.

The secretary of state made public a list of 86 persons and companies which have met the requirements of the neutrality law by registering within the prescribed 90-day period.

Registration Required

Under the act, all those engaged in the manufacture, exportation and importation of arms, ammunition and implements of war are required to register with the secretary of state, paying a $500 fee.

Hull's press conference statement came only minutes after Secretary Ickes had contended that his remarks Nov. 21 about exports to Italy and Ethiopia had been "misunderstood" and that he had asked only for compliance with the administration's efforts to hold up shipments of "munitions."

Ickes' expressions then had been interpreted almost exclusively as calling upon the oil industry to hold up shipments of oil to the warring nations.

Several Firms Fail to Sign

Hull asserted in a formal statement that several firms presumably coming under the neutrality law have not registered. Expressing the hope their failure to do so has been due to "inadvertence" and that they will comply with the law within the next few days, he added:

"However, should they fail to do so within a reasonable time I shall find myself obliged to send the names of the companies which are presumed to have failed to comply with the law to the attorney general for such action as he may deem appropriate."

A penalty of five years imprisonment or $10,000 fine or both is provided for violation of the law. It provides that all persons registering under the act shall maintain, subject to the inspection of the nation.

COUNTY ZONING LAW ADOPTED

Orange county's zoning ordinance, prepared and recommended by the county planning commission, was adopted today by the unanimous vote of the board of supervisors.

Under provisions of the ordinance, which becomes effective in 30 days, all the unincorporated area, with the exception of the South Laguna coast section, will be unrestricted. In that sector provisions of the master plan, outlining business and the various types of residential sections, will become effective.

The motion for adoption of the plan was made by Supervisor N. E. West of Laguna Beach and seconded by Supervisor LeRoy Lyon.

WATER PLAN MEANS JOBS FOR ALL

Project Would Clear Up Unemployment In County For Year

RESULTS PICTURED

Gain From Program Is Told At Meeting Of Committee Here

The Orange county water project will provide jobs for every man in the county. It will entirely wipe out unemployment for a period of at least a year. Assurance of a water supply after the program has been carried out will stimulate investments, hasten recovery and provide jobs for the future.

Such was the picture gained from speakers at the Green Cat cafe last night, where the citizens executive committee supporting the water program met with the board of supervisors and newspapermen.

Prevailing Wage Indicated

Not only will jobs be provided, but every indication points to payment of prevailing wages instead of subsistence wages on the project. All WPA projects such as bridges and schools provide for payment of prevailing wages. A great deal of the construction work will have to be done by skilled machine operators and on such projects these men are paid prevailing wages.

Some of the work will have to be done by private contract, it was stated by Supervisor Willard Smith, because it will be cheaper that way than for the army engineers to buy plants and equipment and handle these portions of the project.

DEFENDS COUNTY HOSPITAL

Discipline Blame Misplaced

John Mitchell, chairman of the board of supervisors and the supervisors' county hospital committee, told The Journal yesterday that Dr. Harry Zaiser, superintendent of that institution, is not responsible for the conduct of prisoners who are sent there on probation by the superior court.

The Journal had criticized Dr. Zaiser for what appeared to be lax discipline, resulting in one instance, of a wild party staged recently by Arthur East, a probation prisoner, who took a hospital orderly and two nurses on a drinking party to the Biltmore Bowl and paid for it with a worthless check.

County Tax Burden to be Lighter if Water Bonds Carry, Chapman Asserts

Orange county's tax burden will be lighter if the flood control and water conservation project is carried out, than it would be if the program were defeated by the voters Dec. 19.

This seemingly paradoxical situation was explained last night by Stanley Chapman of Fullerton, at a meeting of the citizens executive committee supporting the water program, in the Green Cat cafe.

Failure to develop and assure a future water supply will mean that eventually a large area of land must go out of production because of lack of irrigation, Mr. Chapman said.

This will mean that the property remaining on production must carry not only its own share of the tax load, but also the share of the burden formerly carried by the land which went out of production.

"We must consider that if we do not take steps now, our water supply is going to be crippled," said Mr. Chapman. "Whatever move we make must be made now, or we will lose the $6,374,000 federal grant and the upper counties on the Santa Ana river will continue to take the water. It is unthinkable that any man would allow part of the county to be taken out of production through drought or flood. If this happens the tax burden on remaining property will be correspondingly increased. If we don't carry out this program the burden, instead of being lighter, will grow tremendously heavier."

SLIDE WIPES CITY HALL'S OUT VILLAGE RITES TODAY

All 50 Inhabitants Of Town In Ecuador Die In Tragedy Today

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Dec. 3. (AP)—A landslide buried the village of Verde Cocha early today, killing its 50 inhabitants instantly.

Inhabitants of the area around Huigra, where Verde Cocha was situated, heard a deep rumbling underground at 3:15 a. m.

No one was left alive to tell whether any of the inhabitants of the village, set in the Andes, were awakened before the slide hit.

The great mass of rocks and dirt slid over a front of nearly two miles, sweeping everything from the grey and green mountainside.

Not only was Verde Cocha erased from the map, but large portions of two widely known ranches were wiped away, and large numbers of cattle were destroyed.

FITTS ORDERED TO FACE TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3. (AP)—His final legal objections overruled, District Attorney Brown Fitts will stand trial Jan. 15 on a charge of perjury.

His attorneys insisted the perjury indictment by the 1934 county grand jury failed to set forth a legal charge, and contended the indictment contained nothing to show that Fitts took a legal oath before giving the allegedly false testimony to the 1931 grand jury, engaged in investigating his dismissal of the fact to the county probation officer.

"In the case of East, Dr. Zaiser learned that he had left the hospital once before the time he went on the party. He immediately notified Mrs. Nora Allen, county probation officer, by letter. When one of Mrs. Allen's assistants learned of the party and who was on it, Dr. Zaiser dismissed the two

GUARD SLAYS CONVICT; 4 CAPTURED

Civilian Is Beaten To Death By Prisoners In Escape Try

3 GATES SMASHED

Inmates Commandeer Truck And Crash Past Barriers

BOSTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—A desperate break for liberty by five Massachusetts state prison convicts cost two lives today and ended in failure. One of the dead was a civilian employee. The other was a prisoner.

The dead: Louis Richards, 27, Somerville, civilian truck driver, beaten to death by escaping convicts. Philip Naples, 32, Worcester, serving a term for armed robbery, shot down a prison guard.

Prison officials said Richards had backed up his five-ton truck to the prison print shop when, apparently by prearranged plan, five convicts sprang upon him, battered his head with an iron pipe and hurled him to the pavement. Willie MacDonald, a convict helper on the truck, also was attacked.

Smash Three Gates

Racing the truck madly through the big prison yard, the convicts smashed it successfully through three sets of gates.

The outer gates, the convicts leaped upon a truck operated by William Wilson, a former boxer, drew weapons, and told him to "step on it."

Wilson promptly stalled the machine.

Alarms Sounded

By this time alarms were sounding throughout the institution. Thirty police patrol cars summoned by radio were converging.

BANKHEAD TAX SUIT OUSTED

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3. (AP)—Federal Judge Michael J. Roche threw out of court today the suit of some 37 San Joaquin valley cotton growers seeking injunctions to prevent collection of ginning taxes under the federal Bankhead act.

Judge Roche did not pass on the constitutionality of the act but held that Glenn H. Woner and other growers have "an adequate remedy" at law, even in case the supreme court should hold the Bankhead act unconstitutional. They could then sue for refunds, he stated.

Quiz Auditor on Failure to Tell Whitney Delays

Why County Auditor William Lambert permitted Miss Justine Whitney, county recorder, to delay settlement of her accounts 16 times in two years and then, suddenly, call it to the attention of county officers, was the subject of a recent grand jury quiz, it was revealed in a transcript of testimony today. The quiz led to the indictment of Miss Whitney on 32 counts, charging misappropriation of funds and failure to make proper accounting of them.

It also developed today, according to well-founded report, that the grand jury expects to probe further into county affairs as a result of the Whitney indictment. The jury will meet in extra session tomorrow and will go all the way, according to report.

Reported On Nov. 12

Admitting, according to the transcript, that Miss Whitney had not settled her September account until Oct. 26, Mr. Lambert testified that when she had not filed a statement of October business on Nov. 12, he reported it. It was due on Nov. 5.

The transcript shows that Jules Markel, a member of the grand jury, asked Mr. Lambert why he felt it necessary to report a seven-day delay in filing the account when he had neglected to mention a 21-day delay the preceding month.

Lambert's Answer

"I think the main reason is that for the last several weeks, at least, there have been several, more or less, rumors going around and when those rumors started why we really became a little more apprehensive about what it was all about," replied Mr. Lambert.

In further testimony Mr. Lambert indicated that while the law required settlement of accounts between the recorder and the county not later than the fifth of the following month, he was willing to grant "leeway."

The grand jury is anxious to inquire further into this matter of "leeway," according to courthouse reports today and may ask for a more complete explanation tomorrow when they meet in extra session.

May Extend Probe

From reliable sources, more or less close to the jury, it was said that revelations made during investigation of the recorder's office probably would be gone into.

According to the transcript Mr. Lambert told the grand jury during the Whitney probe, that "of course the law says on the fifth and if they come in around the

ARMS INCREASE URGED BY KING

LONDON, Dec. 3.—King George told parliament today it is "urgently necessary" that deficiencies in the defense forces of the British empire be "made good."

The king's warning came as the ninth parliament of his reign convened. The king, in mourning for the death of his sister, Princess Victoria, was not present in person but his words were read to the legislators by Viscount Hailsham, lord chancellor.

A few hours before parliament met, the British treasury announced the government has floated two loans totalling $300,000,000—about $1,458,000,000.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nellie M. Smith, a teacher at Frances Willard Junior High school.

CITY READY FOR FESTIVAL

Event Begins At 7 Tonight

Santa Ana is all set for the gala night of the year.

For weeks the city has been looking ahead to the opening of its Christmas season and the big celebration ever held to inaugurate the holiday period. Tonight is the night.

The most spectacular event of the affair will be the Gilmore circus parade, which will start at 7 p. m. at the Pacific Electric depot on East Fourth street and move west through the business section. Huge, grotesque animals, men with enormous heads, bands, Boy Scouts in costume, latest model automobiles, and at the end, a steam calliope, will be the outstanding features of the parade.

Tonight the Christmas street decorations, more striking and elaborate than ever before, will give the city a festive appearance which will greet the thousands of visitors expected to come to Santa Ana.

Howard I. Wood, secretary of the chamber of commerce, today reminded merchants that store lights will be turned off between 6 and 7 p. m. as a feature of the celebration.

At 6 p. m. store and window lights will be turned out. At 6:58 p. m. street lights and Christmas decoration lights will (Please Turn to Page 9, Col. 7)

EXTENSION OF PROBE ALSO REQUESTED

Would Protect Menton From 'Embarrassing Position' In Case

STATEMENT GIVEN

Motion Made To Board Of Supervisors Asks Special Appointment

Supervisor N. E. West this afternoon asked other members of the supervisors to join with him in a move for the appointment of a special prosecutor to handle the case of County Recorder Justine Whitney, who has been indicted by the grand jury on 32 counts, charging misappropriation of public funds.

Mr. West's motion also would empower such a special prosecutor to "work with the grand jury in making a searching investigation of all other county departments which have been invited by several of the department heads."

Explains Position

In making his motion Mr. West issued a statement saying, in effect that District Attorney W. F. Menton would be in an embarrassing position as a prosecutor of a county official with whom he has heretofore been friendly, particularly in view of the fact that Miss Whitney's attorney, S. B. Kaufman, formerly was Mr. Menton's chief of staff district attorney, Mr. Menton was assistant district attorney under Mr. Kaufman before the latter resigned.

Mr. West also said that "when these irregularities in the records of this office first came to official attention over two years ago, Mr. Kaufman was district attorney and Mr. Menton, chief deputy. They were not hampered by 'unwarrented publicity,' yet nothing was done."

Miss Whitney's office has been under investigation by the grand jury and by Mr. Menton. The grand jury indicted her on 32 counts, 16 of which charge appropriation of county funds to her own use, and 16 of which charge failure to make proper reports to the auditor's office. The amounts listed in the indictment total approximately $48,000.

West's Statement

Mr. West's complete statement to the board follows:

"Orange county's officials throughout the county's history have enjoyed the confidence of the stressed the importance of the project as a means of providing jobs. Supervisor Willard Smith also called attention to this feature of the program. Not only will the project provide enough

HAILE SELASSIE MAKES NEW OVERTURES FOR PEACE WITH ITALY

ASK AID OF PATRIARCH IN CAIRO

Mussolini Forms 'Brain Trust' To Shape Diet Along Wartime Lines

(By the Associated Press)
Emperor Haile Selassie has made another bid for peace with Italy, an authoritative religious source in Cairo divulged today. While Premier Mussolini created a "brain trust" to remodel the Italian diet along wartime lines and the British treasury offered two gigantic loans—part of which may be used for defense—it was learned the King of Kings has appealed to the supreme authority of the Coptic Christian church for aid.

King Gives Warning
Another king, George of Britain, conveyed to his parliament the warning: "The fulfillment of our international obligations under the (league) covenant, no less than the adequate safeguarding of the empire, makes it urgently necessary that deficiencies in the defense forces be made good."

Ethiopia's ruler would have the Patriarch Johannes intervene with the Italian government to establish a basis for peace conversations with the Fascist minister to Cairo about the middle of the month.

Predict Oil Embargo
Authoritative sources in London meantime predicted an oil embargo against Italy would be adopted by the League of Nations under British pressure.

Premier Mussolini's cabinet met the threat of an oil embargo with plans for increasing its supplies of oil and reducing use of the fuel.

At Makale, the Ethiopian village border which the Italians entered about 60 miles from the Eritrean a fortnight ago, the advent of the feast day of St. George, battle saint of the Ethiopians, put the Fascist northern army on guard against any surprise attack.

Dale Deckert, local aviator, was mourning the smashup of a new car today, as well as torn ligaments in his knee. Both casualties were sustained at 7:30 p. m. Mr. Kline was injured and was taken to the county hospital.

AWAIT ORDER ON LIQUOR LAW HERE

Whether or not the 2 o'clock closing law on liquor sales will be enforced in Santa Ana and Orange county depends upon rulings given the law enforcement agencies by District Attorney W. F. Menton and City Attorney L. W. Blodgett.

Mr. Menton said today that while he has not studied the decision of the appellate court at Los Angeles which outlawed the 2 o'clock closing rule, he believes the ruling is logical, if newspaper accounts of the action are accurate.

Mr. Blodgett also said that he has not had a chance to study the wording of the opinion, and that until he is able to examine the ruling and form an opinion, the city probably will continue as it has in the past in regard to 2 o'clock closing.

Both Sheriff Logan Jackson and Chief of Police Floyd Howard said today that they will request advice from their legal advisors before opposing the decision of the appellate court which Saturday held 2 o'clock closing invalid.

Jackson's Statement
The state board of equalization, however, has declared that it will continue strict enforcement of the 2 a. m. to 6 a. m. restriction on liquor sales.

"I expect to confer with the district attorney on the matter of enforcement of the closing restriction. In most cases my office is bound by court rulings as interpreted by the district attorney," said Sheriff Jackson.

"The state board of equalization can enforce the restriction as that body has greater power than do the peace officers. They can revoke the license of liquor dealers who remain open in defiance of the restrictions while we can only recommend such action."

Miss Shontz in Warning
Chief of Police Floyd Howard said:

"I imagine that if the appellate court rules that he cannot close liquor establishments we cannot close them. However, I am going to take the matter up with City Attorney Blodgett and abide by his decision."

Miss Orfa Jean Shontz, Los Angeles member of the state board of equalization, has announced that liquor dealers who sell alcoholic drinks between 2 a. m. and 6 a. m. will do so at the risk of losing their licenses regardless of the challenged validity of the statute prohibiting such sale.

public in their official integrity and fitness for office.

"The present grand jury's indictment of the county recorder, has created a certain loss of confidence in other county departments. The public and its officials are entitled to and should demand that any grounds of suspicion as to official honesty be removed by a fair, thorough and courageous investigation into the various departments of county government. Any honest official will welcome the verdict of a fair investigation. The nominal cost involved is more than justified by the necessity of renewed confidence in county government and by giving clean slates to any official who might be under suspicion by any citizen or group of citizens."

"Embarrassing Position"
"District Attorney Menton, who holds his office through the resignation of his former official partner, Mr. Kauffman, is himself in an embarrassing position when called upon to vigorously prosecute a high public official with whom he has heretofore been friendly, and who is now the client of his former chief and partner, Mr. Kauffman. When these irregularities in the recorder's office first came to official attention over two years ago, Mr. Kauffman was district attorney and Mr. Menton, chief deputy. They were then hampered by unwarranted publicity, yet nothing was done.

"With or without reason, the district attorney's prosecution of the county recorder under the grand jury indictment would thus be under general suspicion as to the sincerity and thoroughness with which the case would be handled. Possible errors on the part of the prosecutor through which a mistrial, dismissal or a retrial might be based would readily be misconstrued by many. Lack of good faith in performing this official duty would probably be charged."

Asks Special Prosecutor

"In view of the facts above stated, I therefore move that a resolution be adopted by the board of supervisors requesting District Attorney Menton to petition immediately the attorney general of the state of California to appoint a special prosecutor, empowered and authorized to take immediate command of the grand jury's indictment against the county recorder, and to work with the grand jury in making a searching investigation of all other county departments as has been invited by several of the department heads.

"Request should be made that the special prosecutor be appointed immediately and that he take charge of the preliminary hearing on the indictments against the county recorder.

"A copy of the motion shall be sent to each county official holding elective office and each official work themselves. On a contract job prevailing wages must be paid.

Aside from water conservation and prevention of floods, this will be the greatest gain to be obtained from the water program. The people will vote on the project Dec. 10, when they will have an opportunity to assure jobs by approving a $6,620,000 bond issue.

Supervisor W. C. Jerome jobs for all Orange county workers, but also it is expected that the project will call for so many men that it will be necessary to hire some from outside the county.

Full Discussion

The meeting was called by Chairman W. H. Spurgeon to discuss the water problem fully and frankly and to make plans for the campaign for the bond election.

Supervisor Smith told the group of conferences with Frank Y. McLaughlin, California Works Progress administrator, and General Jackson, head of the army engineers who would supervise construction of the water projects, in regard to proposed lowering of the Prado dam on the Santa Ana river. On this point Mr. Smith quoted General Jackson as saying, "The size of the reservoir on the Santa Ana river has been very carefully considered to take care of possible floods, which may occur, and the army will not erect a structure that will cause people below to feel that they have protection when I feel that they have none."

U. S. Approval Given

The amount set up in the bond issue for rights of way was approved by all government officials and by President Roosevelt when the federal grant was made, said Mr. Smith. The government is ready to go ahead on the same basis, but Orange county must carry out its part of the agreement, part of which is to provide the rights of way.

"The only way we have to show the government we can carry out our part of the agreement is to vote the bonds containing the amount set up for the rights of way, which is the amount they feel enough to assure them we can carry out our part of the program," said Mr. Smith. "If we cut this amount down, the government might not be satisfied. There is no other way we can assure the government of our ability to carry out our part of the agreement."

Kellogg's Stand

George Kellogg, president of the associated chambers of commerce, exhibited photostatic copies of the county's application for federal aid through the W. P. A. This application, when approved, formed a contract, said Mr. Kellogg, and the county is bound by the amounts set up in this contract, which provides for a contribution of $6,620,000 by the county.

"I think if a reduction had been made there is a very good chance that the federal grant would not have been made," said Mr. Kellogg.

Pledge on Bonds

As has been said before, it is agreed that rights of way probably can be secured for considerably less than the amount set up in the project. The supervisors have agreed to use no more of the bond issue than is necessary, but last night's talks explained why the amount of the rights of way figure could not be reduced in the bond issue.

Mr. Spurgeon told the group that Floyd McCracken, editor of the Anaheim Bulletin, will handle publicity for the campaign. Harry Welch will be campaign manager. An office was opened today at 504 North Main street.

YOUTH SUICIDE OVER STUDIES

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3. (AP)—John Stewart Reed, brilliant 19-year-old University of California at Los Angeles student, committed suicide yesterday, said police, by shooting himself in the head.

Parents of the youth ascribed his act to his fear he would not make "A" grades in all his studies. His father, J. Theodore Reed, film producer, said the boy believed that any grade below "A" was a disgrace.

One of the three notes the youth wrote before he stood in front of his bedroom mirror and shot himself read:

"This suicide has been planned definitely since Tuesday before last. This suicide should have taken place last Sunday when everybody was asleep. I have drunk too much alcohol, which makes me physically and mentally low. Pulling the trigger is going to be the hardest task of my life."

AAA SETS NEW COTTON PACT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—The AAA's determination to push for long-time control of major crops despite pending controversies over the farm act's constitutionality was emphasized today by publication of a new four-year cotton program. It aims at production of 11,000,000 to 12,000,000 bales in 1936.

The AAA now has, in rapid succession, launched four-year control programs for wheat, tobacco, rice and cotton. A two-year contract has been prepared for cornhog producers.

The cotton contract provides for a reduction in "base" acreage from 45,500,000 to 44,500,000 acres.

DOG KILLS CHICKENS

Deputy sheriffs were called to the ranch home of H. B. Phillips on Whittaker road, west of Anaheim, Sunday to investigate the killing of several chickens. They found 18 dead chickens, five others that had been badly chewed, and a dead German shepherd dog. According to a neighbor, he had shot the dog which was running wild in the chicken coup, killing chickens. Mr. Phillips was away from home at the time.

MORE ABOUT LAMBERT

fifth I don't see why he should make any particular holler about it." He said that he thought "we have to allow a little leeway one way or the other because lots of times they have to have a little leeway one way or the other."

Interprets Stand
Mr. Lambert was asked during the investigation if malfeasance in office, or a felony, had not been automatically committed immediately after an officer fails to make financial settlement with the county on the 5th of the month. His reply was:

"It might be a strict interpretation, but if a strict interpretation of the law was put on everything, a lot of you folks would be in jail, and we can't altogether stand on the absolute technicality of the law. If we did we couldn't do anything. I think some of you folks on the school board, in that case, would be in the same jam as Miss Whitney is."

Institutions that others, as viewed by the auditor, might be "in the same jam" as Miss Whitney has created a feeling among grand jurors, it is said, that a more sweeping investigation must be made than the regular annual check of county officers.

In Doubt on Point

It is said that some members of the body feel that Mr. Lambert made the intimations from facts obtained through his office as auditor.

Mr. Lambert told the grand jury that his office is being operated according to legal requirements but that he is not certain whether or not he was required by law to notify the district attorney when Miss Whitney was late with her monthly settlements. He was not certain, he said whether or not the responsibility was his or the board of supervisors.

TRADE ADVISOR PEEK RESIGNS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—George N. Peek has resigned as special advisor to the President on foreign trade and as president of the two export-import banks.

Formal announcement of his resignation was made late yesterday by R. Walton Moore, assistant secretary of state and chairman of killing of several chickens. They found 18 dead chickens, five others that had been badly chewed, and a dead German shepherd dog. According to a neighbor, he had shot the dog which was running wild in the chicken coup, killing chickens. Mr. Phillips was away from home at the time.

BOY, 17, WINS 4-H HONORS

CHICAGO, Dec. 3. (AP)—Gilman C. Stewart, 17, Greensburg, Ind., was national 4-H club meat animal champion today by a decision of the national committee on boys and girls club work.

Stewart, the fifth successive Indiana boy to win the title, H. Clayton Fox, 18, Imbler, Ore., the runner up, and Charles Vanderwork, 20, Waukomis, Okla., third place winner, won college scholarships offered by Thomas E. Wilson, sponsor of this year's contest.

the board of the export-import banks.

No reason was given for Peek severing his connections with the New Deal, which he joined in May, 1933, as AAA administrator.

Moore said the presidencies vacated by Peek would be offered to Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Helping Mothers

to Cut Down On Family's Colds

Unique Formula for Nose and Throat Helps to Prevent Colds—And to Throw Off Head Colds at the Start.

SOON CLEARS "STUFFY HEAD"

Mothers are so often worried about their families' colds that they find special comfort in this unique aid for preventing colds—Vicks Va-tro-nol.

Especially designed for nose and upper throat, where most colds start, Vicks Va-tro-nol stimulates the functions provided by Nature—in the nose—to prevent colds, and to throw off head colds in the early stages. Used in time—at the first sniffle, sneeze or nasal irritation—just a few drops up each nostril—Vicks Va-tro-nol helps to avoid many colds.

Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head cold or nasal catarrh) Vicks Va-tro-nol spreads through the nasal passages—reduces swollen membranes—clears clogging mucus—brings comforting relief.

A Practical Guide for Mothers

Each year, more and more families are being helped to fewer colds, shorter colds and milder colds by following Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Vicks Plan has been clinically tested by practicing physicians, and further proved in everyday home use throughout the country. Full details of the Plan come in each package of Vicks Va-tro-nol.

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

BREAKFAST isn't a very good subject at suppertime, but it'll have to do.

We don't mean just an ordinary breakfast, but one that Elwood Greist was telling about at Newport Beach. For the Sea Scouts, who left for their homes Sunday after three days of entertainment at their annual rendezvous.

Thirty dozen oranges, 30 dozen eggs, 70 packages of breakfast rolls, 26 gallons of milk and 20 gallons of coffee disappeared down youthful gullets in sitting!

That was just an ordinary feed for the Scouts, according to Mr. Greist, who was in charge of the commissary department. At other meals 100 pounds of potatoes, 60 pounds of meat, 12 gallons of canned vegetables—including spinach—50 dozen doughnuts, 50 pies, 100 dozen cookies, 50 loaves of bread and lots more food were consumed!

Imagine that such mountains of food served to spoil a bunch of youthful appetites!

DON'T know yet whether Louie LeGakes, Travel Inn proprietor at San Clemente, was fooling.

He introduced his assistant. In doing so he mumbled and snorted quite a bit. Asked to repeat, he said a worse job than before. Finally he lost patience and wrote down the name.

It was Constantinos Papageorgakopoulos.

Louie almost had an attack of writer's cramp before he finished.

CHECKED up on Huntington Beach's beautification campaign. It's doing very well, thanks. All along main street trees are getting haircuts and having their nails trimmed, or whatever tree experts do. Some of the operations seem to be rather drastic, but it's what the tree doctor ordered, we were told.

Lots and lots of the big eucalyptus trees have been lopped off at the top and look rather bare, but they'll be grown out in no time at all, according to the experts. Some others have been removed, and already the street has an ordered and neat appearance it didn't have before.

Parkways in the middle of the street have also been worked over and new grass is already sprouting.

Looks better.

They'll be all ready for the big postoffice blowout Postmaster Ed Huston and Will Gallienne are planning, if the work keeps progressing.

SEEMS like the rest of the coast cities'll have to get busy to keep up with the Huntington Beachers. Right out there everyone can see 'em, they're going to have 82 beautiful big Christmas trees. They'll be decorated by next Saturday, and if others want any of the prizes for Dr. Huston's and the Coast association's lighting and decorating contest, they'll have to do a lot of work.

The plans include a beautiful shrine at the end of Main street, and a stage for the community chorus of 50 voices. Indirect lighting will make the stage and shrine, in a setting of greenery, a sight to stop motorists.

J. Sherman Denny is in charge of the shrine. Arthur Frost, the tree lighting, and B. E. Hough the community chorus and B. E. Hough a contest for the best decorated window. They are planning a big job, but claim it'll be worth it.

MIDWAY City's new fire truck seems to be wandering around the country quite a bit.

Hearing that there was to be a preview of the new apparatus yesterday, we called on Chief Harold Robertson. Both he and the truck were out.

Seemed like Garden Grove needed the new machinery for a few days while their own truck was being repaired, or something. However, we're looking forward to seeing the new vehicle, because all who've seen it claim that Chief Forester Joe Scherman and his men have done a fine job in building up the body and equipment.

The Midway City department is still busy trying to raise funds for a fire hall, so they can keep their truck out of the rain. They've raised quite a bit of the needed $600. Imagine they'll put on a final spurt in their drive and get the rest within a short time, because they've lots to be proud of in the truck, and from what we hear, everyone in the community's willing to help out.

And, if they can build fire halls as well as they can plant lawns, it'll be one fine fire hall, because the lawn the department planted around the Woman's clubhouse looks fine!

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Initial steps in opening of an 80-foot state highway from Ocean avenue east of Huntington Beach on Hampshire avenue, which now is connected with Buena Park and will eventually run through to foothill towns were taken at a city council meeting here last night.

City Attorney Ray Overacker and City Engineer Harry Overmyer were instructed by the council to prepare a 50-foot set-back ordinance for property along Hampshire avenue.

At present there are seven parcels upon which buildings must be moved to allow such clearance. A $9,000 state gasoline tax fund, earmarked for expenditure on Hampshire avenue, will be used for moving the buildings, it was decided.

Mayor T. B. Talbert and Mr. Overmyer were instructed to ask the county supervisors to enact a similar set-back ordinance to coincide with the city law.

Mr. Overmyer reported that under the program started early this year the state highway department has obtained 48 per cent of necessary deeds along the right-of-way of the Hampshire improvement in the city limit.

The city engineer was also instructed to survey the 40-acre sewage disposal plant property preparatory to improving that area for a city park. He will lay grades for tiling and drains and present an estimate of the cost to the council so that plans may be started for the improvement.

The council signed a lease with the Dunlap Oil company for oil drilling on the city dump grounds, with the oil company paying $300 in advance of the contracted $100 monthly payments. Drilling must be started within one year and the city will receive one-sixth royalty.

A. W. Moorhouse requested $2500 from city funds for carry on work of the city band, and the request was referred to the music and promotion committee.

SEA WALL WORK IS ORDERED

NEWPORT BEACH.—Although six per cent of property owners on Balboa island entered a protest against construction of the proposed $100,000 sea wall around the island, the city council overruled the protest last night and ordered work to start as soon as money for the project is available.

A zoning plan for the city was adopted by the council last night and a public hearing set for Dec. 23.

16 WITNESSES CALLED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Sixteen witnesses have been subpoenaed by the government to testify in the trial, opening next Monday, of Rep. John H. Hoepfel of California, and his son, Charles Hoepfel, on charges of selling a West Point appointment.

HAULED BY THREE TRACTORS

BOLSA.—This community now has a greater claim to fame than from its beet and bean acreage and its turkey farms.

What is believed to be the world's largest plow has been manufactured here by Post Brothers. They didn't make the plow as a hobby, or to fill in their spare time, but to do a definite work, and which they say is becoming more and more necessary in the country each year and which will eventually be used by many farmers to enrich their lands.

The plow weighs 6400 pounds. It is so large that three tractors are needed to furnish power to operate it. Mechanism of the giant piece of machinery is so large that a hydraulic lift controls its movements. A furrow four and one-half feet deep and three feet wide is cut from the earth by the monster, and tractors pulling it use from 24 to 30 gallons of gasoline an hour while operating.

The reason for manufacturing such a giant, according to N. R. Post, C. R. Post and E. A. Post, brothers, who did the work on the equipment, is to reclaim valuable farm land inundated by floods in 1916-22-27. During those years many acres of fine land were covered with a layer of sand, silt and gravel from 12 to 36 inches deep, rendering the land almost unfit for cultivated crops.

The giant plow cuts down through this layer of debris and brings the original rich top soil to the surface. In the past two years several hundred acres have been turned over in this fashion, and the results, they report, have justified the expense of the operation.

Ability of the machine to plow to such a great depth has enabled the brothers to reclaim land which was before considered hopeless. In other fields, where the top soil has been continuously farmed until its fertility has been depleted, bringing new soil to the surface brings equally good results, they report.

Another use for the plow is control of morning glory, they report. Although the deep plowing operation does not eradicate the pest completely, it retards growth sufficiently so that two or three profitable crops can be grown.

Many ranchers in other parts of the country have discovered value of the operation, and the Bolso men shipped another large plow, capable of reaching to a depth of 36 inches, to Phoenix, Ariz.

13 LOBSTERS UNLUCKY!

LAGUNA BEACH.—Possession of 13 short lobsters proved unlucky for William Inloes, 2838 Ward terrace, when he was caught beaching the illegal cargo recently by Capt. Edward R. Hyde of the Fish and Game patrol boat "Broadbill."

Yesterday morning Captain Hyde and Ray Ellis, also of the "Broadbill," appeared in court to testify against Inloes, who pleaded guilty to charges of possession of short lobsters. Mr. Inloes is well known in the community, having lived here for many years. He based his plea for clemency on grounds that he had procured the lobsters for personal use rather than for commercial profit.

Justice of Peace C. C. Cravath reiterated his statement, made early in the season, that there would be no suspended fines for violators of the Fish and Game regulations, then fined Inloes $25.

The new Fish and Game patrol boat "Broadbill" has been in operation since Nov. 22, and, according to Captain Hyde, patrols the area from San Pedro to San Diego, including the islands in this territory. This is the first arrest made here by the new operatives.

JUST PARAGRAPHS: Promoter Sam Sampson, determined to make boxing as popular as wrestling in Orange county, has taken a new tack. Starting this week, "fite nite" will be prize night at the Orange County Athletic club arena. Cash and merchandise will be given away in a manner similar to the popular "bank night" things at theaters.

Boxing enthusiasts aren't downhearted over the failure of Chief Leo Lopez and Clyde Payne to survive the first round of the Golden Gloves tournament in Los Angeles last night. Ringsiders who know are placing their hopes on Lopez Cordova and Don Benzo, a pair of mighty atoms who fly the colors of the O. C. A. C. in the Southland ring parade.

YOU MAY be one of the scores who wonder what that thing was in column 7 on this page last night. We probably would be among the guessers too, if we didn't know that it was meant to be a picture of Vincent Lopez, razzing champion of sorts. Something happened to the "mat" which puts the picture in the form you're supposed to see it—and the result looked like mid-night in Harlem. Or like Joe Louis under the bed.

Wrestling continues to puzzle your reporter—even after nearly two solid years of weekly pilgrimages to the bone bending bazaar. Last night as Senior Lopez felled Wee Willie Davis for the final time, 2000 Orange county folk looked to their feet with joy. Reporters aren't expected to be excited, but we had to stand up—we were swept up by the surge of enthusiasm. But not so with a gentleman in Row 2, behind us. As we turned to leave we saw him sitting there, a baleful look on his face that said "rasberry" in capital letters. He may not have been impressed by that right elbow to the chin movement used by Lopez, but he was the lone exception.

PRO FOOTBALL, which has our money to become one of the leading fall pastimes, now invades Santa Ana Friday night. The Braves and Shamrocks, both exponents of wide open football, clash at the Municipal bowl. The league in which these two squads play has rallied a fine and faithful following in Los Angeles this year because of their colorful play. It has long been a pet prediction of ours that within three or possibly four years the play-for-cash boys will be strong rivals of the play-for-fun gridders.

PREP FOOTBALL has a novel post-mortem coming up in this grid carnal at Long Beach Saturday. Arch-enemies Santa Ana and San Diego join forces as the "south" against Long Beach and Alhambra. The once-powerful Coast league parades in four 16-minute quarters—Santa Ana meeting first Long Beach and then Alhambra—before an expected 10,000 customers. "I will be like any football game except that teams will be shifted at the end of each quarter."

TOM HENNING, sports scribbler of the Ventura County Star, can cool off now. Hints of an ineptitude on Ventura Junior college's "gift" championship team have been removed. When officials started investigating the Pirates right after Long Beach, Glendale and Los Angeles had been blackballed. Tom raged: "They... have been long burning the midnight banana oil to find something on the Pirates." Of course Ventura imported a few players, but they had to keep up with the others.

BOB SPURGEON IS HONORED

Bob Spurgeon, Santa Ana, was honored at Pomona college's annual banquet this week when Miss Constance Hamblen, student body vice president, presented him with his varsity football letter. Young Spurgeon has another year of eligibility with the Sageshens.

An alert end, the Santa Ana boy caught several passes for substantial gains during the 1935 season.

HOLIDAY TILT WITH F.I.C. NETS $710

Safety Jim Montgomery Is Conference's Best Scorer For 1935

Football at Santa Ana Junior college netted $2,185.78 for the Dons during the 1935 season just closed, it was learned today.

The 10-game program approached financially the 11-game card during Santa Ana's Southern California championship reign which cleared $2,337.94 in 1933, and probably would have equaled it if the game with Oceanside had not been called off on account of rain.

Fullerton Game High
This year's Thanksgiving day game with Fullerton, attracting more than 5000 fans, grossed $1,578.40 as compared to the 1933 gate of $1,154.09. The Citrus game grossed $634 as compared to $335.40 in '33. The '35 contest with Riverside outdrew the '33 one $618.39 to $410.95.

Jimmy Montgomery LEADS SCORERS
Accounting for eight touchdowns and three conversions, Jimmy Montgomery, the elusive quarterback of the second place Citrus Owls, led Eastern conference football scorers during the '35 season with 51 points. Pelky Cox, San Bernardino's star halfback, was second with 36. Don Ben Thompson, Riverside, third, with 19. Quarterback Merle Harris, Riverside, fourth, with 14.

Y.M.C.A. FIVES PLAY TONIGHT

They begin all over again in Commercial league basketball at the Y. M. C. A. tonight.

Minus one of their playmates—the Union Oilers—who withdrew at the close of the first half, five aggregations start in quest of championship honors in the new round. Darwin Scott's malt shop cagers won the first-half title.

Unless a new team can be secured this week, byes throughout the schedule will be filled with practice games, Secretary Ralph Smedley said.

The complete schedule:
Dec. 3—Garlock's vs. Woolen Mills, 7:30; Scott's vs. Shell Oil, 8:30.
Dec. 4—Costa Mesa, bye.
Dec. 10—Woolen Mills, bye; Garlock's vs. Scott's, 8:30.

Spaulding Sees Rose Bowl Trouble Ahead

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3. (AP)—Coach Bill Spaulding, whose University of California at Los Angeles football team played both participants in the New Year's day Rose Bowl encounter at Pasadena, weighed Stanford and Southern Methodist in the balance today and then shook his head. "Well, it's going to be a great game," said Bill in that dry way of his. "Stanford has more power and the Mustangs are more slippery or is it slipperier?" Having had his little joke, the coach whose eleven beat Stanford 7 to 6 and lost to S. M. U. 21 to 0, settled down to take the two teams apart so the public might see what made them successful this year.

"Stanford, in my opinion," he said, "has a better line, especially on defense. We punched the ball half way across the field against Southern Methodist before a penalty stopped us. We couldn't do that against Stanford."

Hardly at Best
"Our team was pretty well pepped up for the game with Stanford while against Southern Methodist we hardly were at our best. Understand though, that this doesn't take into consideration whether either of those teams was pointed for us."

"Certainly Southern Methodist's passes, with almost every ball able to throw the ball well and a swarm of receivers down the field are going to give Stanford a lot of trouble."

Coach Spaulding obviously had in mind Alabama's great passing display of the 1935 Rose bowl game as he said this. The Bruin mentor left the impres-

Prizes, Fun for All Assured

When Ted Shipkey's Hollywood Braves clash with Dick Mulhaupt's Westwood Cubs, Friday night at 8 o'clock in Santa Ana's Municipal bowl, the coaching staffs and the varsity squads of the junior college and high school will be guests of the Orange county voiture, 40 to 8 society of the American Legion, which is sponsoring the bowl to raise funds for Christmas charities.

Between the halves the 40 to 8 will stage an old-fashioned greased pig chase for youngsters. Also, between the halves a valuable watch will be presented someone in the stands who will find the winner in the pages of an elaborate program.

MAJORS GET TOPFLIGHTERS IN OGLESBY AND ENGLISH

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3. (AP)—Two Pacific Coast league players who will receive big league baseball trials next year were leading fielders at their positions during the 1935 season, official records released today revealed.

James Oglesby of the Los Angeles club, who has been drafted by the Philadelphia Athletics, was the best fielding first baseman in the coast circuit. He played in 173 games, handled 1634 putouts, made 115 assists and 11 errors for a percentage of .994.

Gilbert English, Portland, purchased by the Detroit Tigers, was the leading third baseman among the regulars with .964. The league's home run king, Gene Lillard of Los Angeles, bought by the

ORANGE CLUB BEATS DONS ON COURT

Concordians Gain Early Lead, Coast To 26-20 Verdict At Orange

Displaying flashes of individual brilliance, yet very little teamwork, Santa Ana Junior college's struggling Dons dropped their second straight basketball game to Vic Baden's Concordians, 26 to 20, on the Walker memorial gym floor in Orange last night.

Guard Leonard Lockhart and Forward Tom Lacy came through with some clever ball handling for the collegians, and Harry Stanley, wingman in football, performed surprisingly well to be in suit only for the first time.

Lacy High Scorer
Lacy, as usual, manufactured most of Santa Ana's points. He accounted for 11 of the 20.

The Concordians might have run off and left Al Rebolin's charges if Orange had been in top form, but they missed numerous shots at close range.

Little Bob Fargee, guard, assured Orange of a slight lead with his 11 points, garnered from shots near mid-court and the foul line. Willard Larsen, Baden's new center, slipped in seven counters.

Trailing at half-time, 13-9, the Dons almost overtook their heavier rival in the third quarter. They crept within two points, 17-15, at one time, and 22-19 at another. Bob Fargee and Larsen sewed up the game with consecutive field goals after Lockhart scored a free shot.

Three of their teams scored clean sweeps as the Santa Ana Country club women turned back the Hacienda Golf club, 9 1/2 to 2 1/2 points, yesterday.

'Educated Elbow' Saves Mat Ruler

By FRANK ROGERS
Journal Sports Editor

ABOUT 2000 Orange county wrestling fans were happy today—as happy as children on Christmas morning. Specific reason is the polished right elbow of Vincent Lopez, recognized world heavyweight wrestling champion; in a broader sense their joy is attributed to the fact that Lopez used his educated elbow to give giant "Wee Willie" Davis a power-housie mauling at the Orange County Athletic club arena last night as the cheerful 2000 looked on.

Bidding for Lopez' title after defeating Sandor Szabo last week, Davis seemed on the verge of crippling the champ with a vicious leg lock just as he had Szabo when a thunder storm in the form of flying elbows broke about his ears. —or, to be more exact, his chin.

Two Straight Falls
Davis went down in two straight falls, the first in 13 minutes, 20 seconds and the second in less time than it takes to read one line in this story.

The wallowing that fans had hoped and prayed for weeks would come to Davis arrived on schedule and to the roar of approval for Lopez. Wriggling out of Davis' highly respected knee lock, Lopez lashed out with his famed elbow smashes—most of the blows finding their mark on the chin of the West Virginia menace with crushing accuracy.

Failed and Felled
Upwards of a dozen times Senior Lopez flailed and felled staggering Wee Willie until at last the 247-pound grappler became a soft touch for a body slam. At the start of the second period Davis attempted to steal a march on the champ, rushed out of his corner a second ahead of the starting gong. He might just as well have rushed out to shake hands with a speeding locomotive.

His robe not yet off, Lopez wheeled. His sure-fire right elbow caught Davis flush on the chin. Davis went down, the crowd leaped to its collective feet with joy and Referee "Boo" Montana raised Lopez' hand in token of victory.

No New Year's eve celebration ever rivaled the tumult that broke over the crowd when Lopez were loose. The cheers for Lopez were such that few heard Davis belly-aching in the manner that had earned him the sobriquet of "Weeping Willie" Davis.

County Persons Will Be Affected by Shutdown on Federal Relief

Between 1200 and 1300 persons in Orange county will be affected by the federal government's shutdown on direct relief.

This was the estimate made today by Terrence Halloran, administrator of the State Emergency Relief administration here. Of this total between 900 and 1000 have been classed as unemployable because of physical condition, age or inadaptability to the work available.

The remainder of about 300 are persons who registered for relief for the first time after Nov. 1. Only those who were on the S.E.R.A. rolls between May and Nov. 1 are eligible for jobs with the Works Progress administration. Therefore these 300 have been on direct relief with the S.E.R.A.

Cutting off of federal funds will leave the direct relief problem up to the state and local governments. Mr. Halloran said today that the clamping down on federal funds will mean a considerable curtailment in the activities of the S.E.R.A. here. There is $2,000,000 a month in state money available for relief throughout California, he said, but this is not enough to carry on the relief program that has been under way.

Water Bonds Questions Answered

To make it easy for the average person to grasp the significance of the proposed Orange county flood control and water conservation project, the Citizens' Water Committee yesterday issued a statement called the "What, Why and How" of the undertaking. In simple language it answers scores of perplexing questions which have been troublesome to those who have sought to understand the bond issue upon which they are to vote again Dec. 19.

The Journal presents the questionnaire herewith:

1. Q. What is the Orange County Flood Control and Water Conservation project?

A. This is a county-wide plan for control and conservation of flood waters within and without the county. It includes eight earth-fill dams and auxiliary spreading works.

2. Q. Where will these dams be constructed?

A. (1) Prado dam site is situated in Santa Ana canyon about 13 miles east of Olive; (2) Brea canyon, within the north city limits of Fullerton; (3) San Juan, three miles east of San Juan Capistrano; (4) Carbon, in Carbon canyon 1½ miles east of Olinde; (5) Fullerton dam and Loftus diversion, in northeast corner of Fullerton; (6) Trabuco, 4½ miles north of San Juan Capistrano; (7) Aliso, 2½ miles northeast of El Toro; (8) Santiago, improvement of present dam located one mile southeast of Irvine park.

3. Q. How much is the entire project to cost?

A. U. S. Army engineers' estimate $13,194,000.

4. Q. How is this work to be paid for?

A. Partly by federal grant, partly by bonds upon the entire county.

5. Q. What part of this will come in the form of a federal grant?

A. $6,574,000.

6. Q. How much will the county have to pay?

A. $6,620,000.

7. Q. How long will the county bonds run?

A. 40 years at 4 per cent.

8. Q. Is the entire amount of the Army engineers' estimate to be spent?

A. The county supervisors are pledged to use only what is absolutely necessary to complete the project.

9. Q. How do you know all the money will not be spent on one dam?

A. The Army engineers' estimate is based upon an allocation of a certain sum for each unit of the complete project.

10. Q. What will become of unspent money, if any?

A. It will be returned to the source, as was done at Newport harbor where approximately $200,000 was unspent.

11. Q. Is Prado dam to be located in Orange county?

A. No. The dam and reservoir are in Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

12. Q. Why was the Riverside county dam site selected instead of one in our own county?

A. It is safer and cheaper.

13. Q. Will any water that is held in Prado reservoir escape into the Chino basin?

A. No. This is physically impossible.

14. Q. Why will it not overflow into the Chino basin?

A. Water cannot run up hill. The Chino basin is above the high water line in the Prado reservoir.

15. Q. How much water will be saved annually by the Prado dam?

A. The annual average saving will be 21,000 acre feet.

16. Q. What will become of this water?

A. Water conserved comes at a season of non-irrigation and will be released and sunk into the underground basin for use of all pumpers.

17. Q. How long will water be held behind Prado dam?

A. Only as long as is necessary to control and release it for absorption.

18. Q. How will this water get out of the reservoir?

A. It will flow steadily through a permanent opening placed at the present stream bed level.

19. Q. Will the major water companies get the water held in the reservoir?

A. No. The water companies have no use for this water at the time it will be in the reservoir.

20. Q. Are the water companies opposing the county project, or any part of it?

A. No. As a matter of fact some of the officials of these companies have been strong sponsors for the project.

21. Q. Who will own the Prado reservoir site?

A. The County of Orange.

22. Q. Will Riverside county be able to force Orange county to pay taxes on the reservoir property and dam?

A. Orange county will have to pay taxes on the reservoir site but not upon the dam.

23. Q. Will Prado dam cut off the normal underflow of the Santa Ana river?

A. No. The normal underflow will be by-passed.

24. Q. How high will the water level be above the stream bed when the reservoir is full?

A. 77 feet.

25. Q. What type of dams will be constructed?

A. All are to be earth-fill dams.

26. Q. Are earth-fill dams safe?

A. This type of dam is the safest known.

27. Q. What engineers will supervise construction?

A. The United States Army Engineer Corps will have charge.

28. Q. Have the Army engineers experience in construction of dams?

A. There is no question about their qualifications in any type of construction.

29. Q. Where will the labor supply come from?

A. It will be recruited through the National Reemployment service with offices in Santa Ana. Orange county labor is insured of first preference.

30. Q. How many men will be required for labor on the entire county project?

A. Between 5000 and 6000 men will be needed at the peak of construction activity.

31. Q. What assurance does the county have that labor will be reasonably efficient?

A. Proper supervision, as exemplified on the Newport harbor project, does not permit of inefficiency.

32. Q. Is there a real flood menace in Orange county?

A. Absolutely. 1916, 1921 and 1927 are recent examples.

33. Q. Why not build high dykes to carry this water to the sea?

A. The cost would be excessive; flood control would not be permanent, and there would be a loss of water into the ocean.

34. Q. Is there in existence at the present time any plan for adequate control of the Santa Ana river, other than that included in the Orange County Flood Control and Water Conservation project?

A. There is not.

35. Q. Who is opposing the bonds?

A. A number of persons who have not been completely informed regarding the project.

36. Q. How much will the bonds increase taxes on a residence with a market value of $4000?

A. An average of $2 per year figured on the present valuations.

37. Q. What is the estimated annual water conservation from the entire county project?

A. 40,000 acre feet.

38. Q. Is the expenditure justified from flood control and conservation benefits promised?

A. Yes. United States army engineers have accepted $18,000,000 as the economic value of the project.

39. Q. Why not forget the Orange county project and go to the Mojave river for our water?

A. Primarily the Orange county project is for flood control. Granting that there is a water surplus on the Mojave, which has not been determined, the cost of this water is unknown. It promises endless litigation, which is not the case in the Orange county project.

40. Q. Why not rely upon Metropolitan Water District water to supply our agricultural needs?

A. The plan of the Metropolitan Water district is to bring water in for domestic and industrial uses, which always bear a higher cost rate than agriculture can afford. This water will be too costly for permanent use in agriculture.

41. Q. Is there any other source from which Orange county can obtain water for importation?

A. No.

42. Q. What is meant by "political dams" in the Orange county project?

A. This term has been used to imply the inclusion in the project of dams planned for the sole purpose of influencing a special interest or a special block of votes.

43. Q. Are there any political dams included in the Orange county project?

A. Absolutely not. All dams planned are needed for the protection of life and property.

44. Q. Why not build a lower dam at Prado, say one of 70 feet above the stream bed instead of 90 feet as planned?

A. General Jackson, head of the army engineers to have charge, declined to permit a lessening of the safety factor. He said his department had approved the high dam only after studies which convinced him a lower structure would not provide adequate protection.

45. Q. How many people voted at the October election?

A. 23,220.

46. Q. How many were registered?

A. 54,675.

47. Q. How many voted for the bonds?

A. 14,586.

48. Q. How many against?

A. 8613.

49. Q. What percentage of the vote cast is needed to pass the bonds?

A. 66½ per cent.

50. Q. What percentage of the vote cast Oct. 4 favored the bonds?

A. A little over 62 per cent.

51. Q. If the voter had a fair chance to pass upon the bonds Oct. 4 why resubmit the issue now?

A. The voter did not have a fair chance. The time was too short for the campaign and many voters did not understand the issue.

52. Q. Why should the work be done now?

A. This work should be done at once to make use of the federal aid now available, and to protect the county against flood menace and water shortage.

53. Q. If Orange county does not prepare to take care of its share of the normal flood water of the Santa Ana river what will become of this water?

A. It will be spread by and retained in San Bernardino and Riverside counties. Orange county water levels will continue to go down.

54. Q. Who will benefit from construction of the county project?

A. Everyone living in the county.

55. Q. Why should the non-property owner vote for these bonds?

A. Security and prosperity to the county as a whole are as vital to the non-property owner as to the property owner.

56. Q. Who will appraise the lands for rights-of-way?

A. The county supervisors have promised to select a board of appraisers before the date of the election. This board will be representative of the county and will consist of men well qualified and of known integrity.

57. Q. How can the voter know the supervisors will not divert some of the bond money to other purposes?

A. The law will not permit.

58. Q. What will become of money saved by reason of a cut in the flood control levy and by a lowered demand for public relief?

A. The supervisors have promised to use these factors in lowering the general tax levy.

MORE FACTS

Blinded by the light, Anne stumbled across the raised threshold.

Tecla followed, railing at her own stupidity. "I was asleep. I wakened, quick. I do not see well for the moment and I think you are a ghost. That white coat, your hair hanging in braids."

"The ghost of whom?" Anne asked quickly.

"Oh," Tecla shrugged her shoulders, "that I do not think for sure. Perhaps my sister."

"Your sister is dead?" Anne demanded, "when did she die; where?"

"Before I came to this country. She died in Uleaborg maybe thirty years ago, no, thirty-three. She was young, like you. Younger, sixteen, she had just taken confirmation."

They were in the room now and the momentary interest Anne had had in Tecla's sister had waned. She supposed she did look ghostly coming in out of the dark in that white slicker. Tecla had pulled a wooden rocker close to the cook stove, in a room which seemed to be used for living as well as kitchen purposes.

Anne sank into the rocker, then looked up. The room seemed filled with sober, round-eyed children who stood silently watching her.

Tecla rapped out an order in Finnish and they vanished as silently as they had appeared. When the last had disappeared through a narrow door, and the sound of bare feet pattering up a wooden staircase had ceased, Tecla turned to John.

"I'll bring your keys back, after while," he said, and he too disappeared, leaving them alone.

Tecla crossed the room, stirred up the fire, then came to stand before Anne, and look down at her. Anne felt she was a child again and that somehow Tecla had come into her nursery during the night, to frighten away a bad dream with her presence.

"You wish to tell Tecla, or no? Maybe to bed now you go, yes?"

"I—" Anne stood up, "I—"

"You have had trouble," Tecla cried. Impulsively her arms went out and Anne went into them.

When the sobs had quieted under the steady stroking of the woman's hand, she spoke, "There is trouble. There is more than grief, Nikki?"

"Yes," Anne straightened up, and smiled at her old nurse through her tears. "I'm ashamed Tecla, but," she shrugged her shoulders, "it's good to be here."

Tecla nodded. She looked about the big kitchen, the living room of her home, and smiled. It was spotlessly clean. Against the starched whiteness of her window curtains, was the delicate tracery of hanging ferns and potted plants in painted tins. Dishes gleamed from shelves, accented here and there by old world pottery in rich blues and buff.

"Yes," she conceded with pride, "home is always good. You are at home here."

At home. Anne sank into the worn wooden rocker. She didn't stop to analyze the difference she felt between Tecla and the other servants.

Tecla she had known only in the years when she was dependent upon her. The other servants, whom she liked no less, had as she had grown assumed the places of those to be commanded. Tecla had never lost her place of the one to be obeyed, in Anne's mind.

She obeyed her now. She talked, told more than she realized in her rush of words, and Tecla, a grotesque little figure in her worn grey bathrobe pulled over an equally worn flannel gown, listened.

"I don't understand," the nurse protested when she had stopped. "Always Mr. Farnsworth t'ink for you, always! When you're little he say, 'I build these fine canneries, then when my little Anne grow big, she have them.'"

"I know," Anne confessed. "He said something of that to me the very afternoon of the accident, then something happened later to make him change his mind. Tecla," she said sharply, "you were with him during that time. Tell me, what did you say to him and to mother?"

Tecla looked at her. "I not say anything about you. I promise I not tell what I say, but," she shrugged her shoulders, "I only tell him the men grow angry at the cannery buying first from the fish traps. I bring him the petition written by the fishermen. He ask me who own these traps. I tell him what I think. He asks me to prove, but that I cannot do."

Anne was satisfied she was telling the whole truth. Luke's attitude later, proved this. However it did not explain the reason for a change in his will. And now she thought of the other reason for her journey there, the principal reason.

"Tecla," she began, cautiously, "why do you call me Nikki?"

"Annikki, is the Finnish for

CLIPPER MAY VISIT HERE

Plans were under way today to have the Manila Clipper of the Pan-American Airways stop in Santa Ana on its way north to Alameda, from where it will make its first flight to Manila.

Santa Ana is the home town of the builder of the China, the Philippine and the Manila Clippers—Glenn Martin. Santa Ana is the town where Glenn Martin built and flew his first airplane 25 years ago.

The Manila Clipper probably will be flying north within the next few days. Today Howard I. Wood, secretary of the chamber of commerce, said he had written to the Pan-American Airways at San Francisco, inviting the Manila Clipper to make a stop here at the home town of its builder. The ship probably is equipped with porticoes, however, and in this event the stop can be made at Newport harbor.

Mr. Wood said that if the invitation is accepted plans will be made to declare an unofficial half holiday to make it possible for Santa Anans to see the huge clipper ship light and take off.

The China Clipper, first of the fleet built by Mr. Martin, is on its way back to Alameda today from Manila. The Philippine Clipper is now at Alameda.

Anne. Sometime I call you Annikki, sometime just Nikki."

"Nikki, just Nikki." She brooded over the name. "Tecla, that's who I am, Nikki . . . a nobody."

"No!" Tecla's voice was sharp, "never you are to say that again, never, hear me?"

Anne looked up in surprise. "Then you know I'm not Luke Farnsworth's daughter," she challenged.

U. S. LEAGUE INDORSES BIRTH CONTROL FOR MOTHERS ON RELIEF

CROWD HEARS MINISTER'S APPROVAL

Mother Of Katharine Hepburn Takes Stand At N. Y. Meeting

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (AP)—The first public meeting of the American Birth Control League here in seven years was on record today with a recommendation that birth control information be provided for mothers of families on relief.

Estimates based on the size of Carnegie hall where the meeting was held last night indicated about 2500 persons attended.

Indorses Control
They heard Canon H. Adyve Prichard of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and other speakers indorse birth control.

"I can find nothing in religion contradictory to birth control," he said.

Canon Prichard added, however, "I stand here as a minister of the Protestant Episcopal church, but my church won't back me up—very strongly."

Star's Mother Speaks
Mrs. Thomas Hepburn, mother of the film star, Katharine Hepburn, appealed for early marriage and birth control knowledge for married couples as the way to bring about "a morality based on intelligence and ideals, not on fear."

She was applauded when she said that "perhaps the best way to promote morality is to give marriage a chance."

A resolution, embodying the league's recommendation and presented by Charles H. Strong, secretary of the New York City Bar association, asserted that 250,000 children were born annually to mothers on relief.

Pierce To Lead Song In East
Off to Chicago on the 7:05 o'clock Union Pacific train from Anaheim Frank Pierce, talented local song leader, will leave tonight for an 11-day trip to Chicago, where he will assist in song-leadership for the American Farm Bureau federation convention.

He will board a special car in Los Angeles which will meet another car of delegates from San Francisco at Ogden, Utah. He will go early to lead the songs for the auxiliary three-day convention which is to precede the federation meeting.

He will assist Homer Rodeheaver, famous song leader, in directing music at sessions of the main convention.

Jack Crill, past president of the Orange county farm bureau, will leave Santa Ana Dec. 6, for the meet.

National convention planners first heard of Pierce through his work at Ft. Collins, Colo., last summer, when he directed music for the western states conference of farm bureaus. He also was director of music for the state convocation in Santa Cruz this year and at Bakersfield last year. He will return to Santa Ana Dec. 14.

Autoists Warned Not to Park on Parade's Route
If you want to find your car after tonight's Christmas festival parade, don't park it on any of the streets over which the parade will travel.

This was the friendly warning issued today by the committee in charge. After 5 p. m. today it has been requested that no cars be parked on these streets. If any are found there, they will be moved.

The reason for the request is that there will be thousands of persons watching the parade, which will take up practically the entire width of the streets.

CURE FOR WAR TOLD AT 'Y'

"World peace is possible through the removal of three elements which would eliminate armies and the military spirit," said Dr. Carl Knopf of U. S. C. at the Southern California Y. M. C. A.'s annual older boys' conference in Whittier Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

"First, remove the uniform; second, remove the profit from war and from preparation for war; and third, remove the element of admiration for military achievement which attracts attention and approval. With these elements removed, militarism will languish regardless of other considerations," Dr. Knopf said.

Santa Ana was represented at the conference by Herbert Thomas, associate secretary of boys' work, and Glenn Layton, who were joined by J. B. Wilbur, secretary of the Orange Y. M. C. A., and Orange delegates Jack Lentz, Robert Clifford, Gilbert Bell and Cadet Barnes. A. Haven Smith, principal of Orange High school, was general chairman of the conference committee.

R. S. DICKENSON, PIONEER SANTA ANA RESIDENT, BURIED
Funeral services were held at 10 o'clock this morning at the Harrell and Brown mortuary for Russell Seth Dickenson, pioneer resident of Santa Ana, who died at the home of his son, Raymond Dickenson, 420 North Bush street, Friday evening following a long illness.

Services were under direction of the Santa Ana I. O. O. F., followed by burial in Fairhaven cemetery.

Mr. Dickenson first came to Santa Ana 50 years ago from Marlborough, Conn. He is remembered as operator of the first passenger horse car service between Santa Ana and Orange. Later he was identified with one of the first transfer companies in Orange county.

The deceased was active in business until 10 years ago when a stroke forced his retirement. His death at the age of 74 was attributed to a heart attack.

Mr. Dickenson was prominent in the Santa Ana I. O. O. F. lodge, at one time holding the position of grand noble. He was active in the Calumit camp and the Canton lodge.

He is survived by three sons, Raymond B., Edwin and Eugene Dickenson, and by four grandchildren, Bethel, Russell, Richard and William Dickenson, all of Santa Ana.

FIVE-CENT BUS FARE GIVEN APPROVAL

Council Votes Eckles Permit to Operate New Lines in City

Santa Ana will have 5-cent bus fares in the future.

Reduction of the present 7-cent fare was assured last night when the city council approved the application of C. H. Eckles to extend his present lines and operate two new lines, and turned down the application of Albert Hazelhurst for permission to operate a bus line in the city.

Two New Lines
Action on the bus permit was taken when Councilmen Plummer, Bruns and Joe Smith and City Attorney L. W. Blodgett, committee named at a recent meeting to investigate the bus situation, recommended denial of the Hazelhurst application and continuance of the service given by Mr. Eckles.

New lines to be operated under the permit granted Mr. Eckles will give additional service in the northwest and southeast sections of the city.

One line will leave Fourth and Main streets and go west to Ross, north to Santa Clara, west to Greenleaf, south to Seventeenth, east to Ross, south to Fifth, east to Main and south to Fourth street.

The other line will leave the Fourth and Main street intersection, traveling west on Broadway, south on Birch, to Wilshire, east to Main, north to Oxford, east to Orange, north to McFadden, east to Oak, north to Bishop, west to Orange, north to First, west to Spurgeon, north to Fourth and west to Main street.

Line to Be Extended
The south Main street line will be extended from its present terminal at St. Gertrude street to Delhi road, and the present North Broadway line will be extended to cover all streets in North Broadway park.

All lines, according to Mr. Eckles, will operate on half hour schedules.

Mr. Eckles has promised the reduced fares if given the opportunity to continue his service. He told the committee that a reduction in fare was made possible through joint operation of the city bus lines and the school bus service without additional overhead.

FLAT TIRE BRINGS LUCK! Sharpless Meets Gen. Ramos

What luck! A flat tire! And it was good luck for B. H. Sharpless of Newport road. But it wasn't his flat tire.

Mr. Sharpless and his son, Monroe Sharpless of Oceanside, were on their way home from a fishing trip in Lower California the other day when a man stepped out on the road and flagged their old Ford to a stop. They halted.

"We've got a flat tire," said the man, pointing to a big, shiny car on the road between Ensenada and San Diego.

Mr. Sharpless and his son helped the well dressed man and his companion to put on a spare. When they were through, one of the men offered them a $10 bill. They declined the offer.

"Well, anyway," responded the other, "next time you're down this way, come up to my ranch above Ensenada and visit us."

"Maybe you'd better tell the gentlemen who you are," suggested the other man. "He's General Ramos, the governor of the northern district of Lower California," the man informed Mr. Sharpless and his son.

NINE BICYCLES STOLEN HERE

Santa Ana police, who have suspected for several weeks that an out-of-town gang had been coming into the city and stealing bicycles, were convinced today that their suspicions were well founded. Last Saturday at about 9 p. m. seven bicycles belonging to Santa Ana youths were stolen from the vicinity of Fourth and Birch streets. Two of the bicycles were recovered Sunday on Fairview avenue in the 1200 block.

Detective Lieutenant Charles Wolford said he believed the two recovered bicycles had fallen from a truck. They were badly damaged, and appeared to have been dropped from a speeding vehicle, he said. Fairview avenue is one of the short cuts to the coast highway, which led officers to believe the thieves were heading for some of the beach towns.

Those whose bicycles were stolen were: Harold Short, 1009 West Sixth street; Mickey Snee, 502 West First street; Robert Pierce, 112 West Santa Clara; Earl Prumers, 407 East Hobart street; Richard Towle, Tustin; Jimmie Carrillo, 1429 West Third street; and Richard Kessler, 813 North Sycamore street.

The bicycles recovered were the property of Jimmie Carrillo and Richard Kessler.

Mary Stoddard Dan Cupid Ought to Shoot a Pierced Arrow Into the Heart of This Bachelor

Oh, that some of the famed characters of fiction lore might only step from the world of make-believe right out into this busy, worrisome world of reality, some of the unhappiness could be eliminated.

For instance, if little Dan Cupid were an honest-to-goodness person, I'd surely corner him a dozen times a day and beseech him to shoot his arrows straight into the right persons' hearts.

And one of those arrows would go straight to the heart of a certain man that "Unhappy Beth" describes in the following letter:

Dear Miss Stoddard: I hope you and your readers can straighten me out and my problem. I may be in a kink which will take a bomb to unlink.

Here is my difficulty: The old story—I love a man and have loved him devotedly for the past six years and still love him as much or if not more than I did at first.

However, his ardor for me seems to be waning, and to my great unhappiness I have discovered that he has been seeing other girls.

He is 35 and I am 28. I love this man and I want a home.

I don't know why he treats me as he does as I feel sure he loves me, too, else why would he continue to come to see me at all?

The question is what can I do to regain or deepen his love for me or to reach his interest in me? It is such that I can't change locations and this is a small community, so the male population of a suitable age brings no competition, even if it were desirable to me.

Can you, or any of your readers help me? Perhaps some of the men who have had a similar experience can tell me what their love did to bring them back.

I know I am willing to try any advice that comes to me, and I hope I can let you know some day soon that it was successful.

UNHAPPY BETH.

Just as heart interest can be sometimes awakened, or held in a man by diplomacy, tact and cleverness, on the part of a woman, just so can it be killed by too much planning or an undue display of affection.

Just judging from what you have written, I should say the man you are devoted to, hasn't serious intentions. He evidently does not wish to marry, but still wants you for a friend. Surely, in six years time, if he were serious about marriage, he would have let you know about it.

To worry over this state of affairs will only drive him completely from you. Be nice to the man when you are with him and develop a nonchalant, carefree air. Don't run after him. Don't let him know that you are the least bit concerned with his friendships with other girls. And if there aren't any really eligible men in your community, pick out some of the not-eligible and cultivate casual friendships with them.

Beyond that, trust to luck. If any of our readers have other and better suggestions we shall be happy to print them.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

Would you encourage a boy in following an artistic career?

Mrs. Edith M. Wilson: I think that all depends on the temperament of the boy. Yes, I would advise him to go ahead with it. I have a boy who thinks along those lines, and he also took up radio work, so that he can always make a living. Every young person should have at least two ways of making a living, and two outlets for his interest, I believe.

Mrs. William Wells: If he's inclined that way, I think it would be splendid. He should be encouraged and given training along the desired artistic line.

Two Brides Are Introduced At Party

Two attractive young brides, recent additions to the Joseph P. Smith family, were introduced at an at home given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Smith last Saturday evening in their home on South Broadway.

Mrs. Smith, who wore a green crepe hostess gown with baby chrysanthemum and rosebud corsage, was assisted in receiving the guests by her new daughter-in-law, Mrs. Don Smith (Eleanor Richards) of Los Angeles, in black crepe, and Mrs. Joseph Smith (Dorothy Selway) of Santa Ana, in black velvet. Both brides wore gardenia corsages.

Also in the receiving line was the Joseph W. Smith's daughter, Miss Elizabeth Smith, in blue tulle over white satin skirt. The two other daughters in the family, Mrs. George Osterman, in black satin, and Mrs. S. M. Patterson, in blue crepe, assisted in serving.

The buffet supper table was centered with autumn fruits on Chinese embroidered linens, and the buffet was gay with pink and white chrysanthemums, white tapers and fragile silver wedding bells.

Reported Peace Move In East Africa Is Help To Stocks

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (AP)—The stock market brushed away some of its foreign fears today and traders bought equities they had dumped overboard in the previous session.

Reports that the Ethiopian emperor had made a move for peace with his Italian foes may have had something to do with recoveries, which ranged from fractions to around 2 points.

Among the best share gainers were Louisville & Nashville, N. Y. Central, Illinois Central, Southern Pacific, U. S. Steel, International Nickel, Cerro de Pasco, Du Pont, Union Carbide, American Telephone, Western Union, Consolidated Gas, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Case and American Can.

MORE ABOUT HIGH COURAGE

does not take from you just your home and your money, he takes your name."

"Then I have a name? Tecla, do you know it? Did Lucinda ever say anything to you about my parents?"

"Yes," Again the peculiar defiance. "This much I tell you, Mrs. Farnsworth, she says to me 'Tecla, now I am happy. My baby she came from a father who is strong and brave, from a mother who is the fine lady.' That she says to me."

"I hadn't thought of my father," Anne declared, softly, and repeated, "a father who is strong and brave." Tecla, I'm going to find him, will you help me?"

Tecla stooped and patted Anne's hand. "No, Nikki, I tell you something else Mrs. Farnsworth says: now they are both dead so Luke and I will be like her own. That much I tell."

"Had he died before my mother came to the hospital, do you know?"

"I don't know," Tecla confessed and her brow furrowed. "Only know Mrs. Farnsworth say he died that same night. No more I know," she concluded with set stubbornness.

Anne was satisfied she knew more, but she was also satisfied with what she had learned. She would stay near and gradually she would learn more. Now she relaxed into the chair, conscious of the warmth that penetrated to her chilled marrow, the simmering tea kettle, the cozy crackling of the fire and the pattering rain on the window panes.

"Nikki, dinner you had?" Tecla asked suspiciously, as she looked at the pale face of the girl.

"No, but I'm not hungry."

"Better you eat before you go to bed," she hurried to the stove to pull a coffee pot forward, then from the rear porch she brought a bowl. "It is fishermen's stew, it makes them big and strong like it makes you, little Nikki."

She chatted on as she busied herself about the kitchen, tying a starch-stiff apron over her robe. "You stay awhile with Tecla?" she asked, pouring the contents of the bowl into a pan.

"If I could, Tecla. Would you have room for me? I'd so love to hide away for a while until I know what I want to do."

"So," agreed Tecla.

A rap on the door interrupted further plans. "John Neuman stepped in," her keys, Miss Farnsworth, he said.

"Come in, John," Tecla ordered, "we have the stew, and I cook coffee. Later we talk." She hesitated a moment, then turned to Anne. "You do not care if I tell him some of what you have told me?"

John Neuman suggests a plan to Anne, tomorrow.

It Happened In Santa Ana

SCENE: In living room in a fine city filled with friendly people who love the grandeur of their mountains, the blue of their Pacific and their matchless climate with its semi-tropical setting. The father is behind the sports page, mother is planning a new dress for Flossie who is making plenty of suggestions. Enter Junior.

JUNIOR: "Hello folks." "Oh, Daddy! Donald has the sweetest little workshop at the rear of the garage, fitted up with a work-bench and tools, and, oh, yes, he has a light right over it so he can work evenings. Why can't I have a workshop and a cactus garden like he has?"

FLOSSIE: "And, say, Daddy, Margie has a bird house and a fish pond all her own."

FATHER: "Well, son, you see Donald's father owns his own home, while we rent this place."

MOTHER: "My dears, it is past your bedtime, so you had better kiss your Daddy goodnight and climb into dreamland."

Exit Junior and Flossie

MOTHER: "When we were over to Smith's last evening, did you notice the beautiful shrubs and flowers and the lighting effects in the rear semi-patio?"

FATHER: "I did not notice them especially, but I did think that outdoor fireplace and grill was a dandy. That grilled steak and coffee were sure delicious!"

Next Evening After Children Are In Bed

FATHER: "Say, Mother, what the children said last night rather set me thinking. I did not realize how much it meant to them to have their own shop and pets. You looked kind of wistful at the flowers the other night at Smith's, and I rather believe I am envious of their fireplace. What do you say to looking around for a nice roomy home with a chance for a fireplace in the rear?"

MOTHER: "I'd love to. Why don't you call Mr. Roe who is reliable and knows just what we need?"

FATHER: "Give me Main 7934. Is this Richard Roe the real estate man? Say, Roe, can you call around about a 2 p. m. tomorrow and show Mrs. John Doe and myself something in a house and lot suitable for our family? That's fine. We will be ready."

A dwelling that will reflect the discriminating, good taste of some proud owner.

First, consider the general plot plan arrangement. The grounds are made an important part of the whole scheme. They form the setting, acting as background and foreground for the house itself. The lot is 68x150 feet and situated on the southeast corner of the block. The property is bordered on two sides by palm trees. The house is set well back from the street, with a broad lawn covering the interval.

The house itself is white with green trimmings and of two-story construction, with concrete foundations and shingle roof. The living room is spacious, with a fireplace in the south end. All eight rooms have oak floors throughout and are heated by gas. The plumbing is in good condition, the bathrooms having tiled floors. There is an extra toilet installed off of the back porch.

A sidewalk leads from the back porch to the two-car garage, and a concrete driveway from the garage to the street. Paved streets and sidewalks on two sides of the property. All improvements in and paid for.

The location is one of easy access to marketing district, short distance from schools and an easy walk to the center of town.

AN EVENTFUL DAY

THIS is an eventful day in Santa Ana. We are dedicating a new city hall and shaking hands with a new postmaster. The city has reason to feel proud of both.

The magnificent new structure at Third and Main represents real progress; also it is the result of some very excellent cooperation between citizens of Santa Ana and representatives of the federal government. The financial aid extended this community by the administration made it possible for us to move out of temporary quarters into a modern, well-appointed building designed particularly for the needs of such a city as Santa Ana. We are grateful to all those who had a part in making the government's financial assistance available and to the others who stayed with the job until it was finished.

We are gratified over the final settlement of the post-office job, a plum which often is spoiled in the picking, due to the bitterness and sore spots which frequently feature the scramble.

Frank Harwood's selection met the unanimous approval of the Democratic central committee, and his choice is as near universal satisfaction as could be expected when one remembers the various factions and personal interests which were involved. He is one of Santa Ana's finest young business men, a loyal party man, and his energy and executive ability will be a credit to the administration he represents.

We'll miss Terry Stephenson's friendly smile through his open doorway, but we know Mr. Harwood's latch-string will be out, too.

NIGHT DRIVING HAZARDS

NIGHT driving is becoming a positive hazard in Southern California.

"I'd like to go tonight but I'm afraid of the one-eyed drivers and the glaring lights," is the oft-repeated assertion these days.

Three more persons went to a hospital in critical condition the other day after an accident near Colton. Blinded for a few seconds by the glaring lights of an approaching automobile, a motorist collided with a concrete and steel bridge.

The highway narrowed from a three-lane to a two-lane road over the bridge, and, although the driver was familiar with the road, the glaring lights prevented him from seeing the bridge in time.

As for one-eyed cars, they are too numerous to count and nobody is doing anything about it. The Automobile Club of Southern California appeals to motorists to exercise courtesy and turn down the light beams.

It seems to us that it is more than a courtesy to dim lights and see to it that both are burning. It is an infraction of the law not to and some of the highway patrolmen who spend their time hiding behind corners for other violations could employ it to much better advantage by moving in swiftly upon every driver whose lights do not conform to automobile code requirements. Visiting tourists say California is notably lax in this respect.

WARS AND RUMORS

A NOTHER World War? I don't know, says General John J. Pershing.

War? Yes, in 1940, says H. G. Wells, author and distinguished international analyst.

War? The world fears so but hopes not.

And so international complications continue which bring the danger closer day by day.

And what can be done to prevent it? Nations are now building their national defense. Purchases of war materials are being placed with manufacturers. Announcements appear every day that this country or that country is strengthening its position. All preparations are being made for war—none for peace, except the prayers of the peace-makers.

No nation wants war. A few individuals may. But the few often lead the many, and under existing pressure and aggravation anything can happen, and happen any time.

If the League of Nations sanctions as applied to Italy are effective, the war can be confined to Italy and Ethiopia, with the final adjustment in the hands of those who applied the sanctions. It's a bloodless method, calculated to stop the flow of munitions and foods, and it takes both if you keep an army in the field.

A nation starved into submission is usually more reasonable to deal with.

SAN CLEMENTE'S FIESTA

SAN CLEMENTE concluded a three-day Spanish fiesta Sunday and sent hundreds homeward bound with pleasant memories of the trim little Spanish Village and its hospitable people. It was more than a fiesta; it was a celebration that marked a new era of prosperity and neighborly understanding.

If no guests had been entertained, San Clemente would have been disappointed, of course. But if its people had accomplished nothing more than prepare for them, they still would be ahead. For, in preparing for the event, the villagers forgot a lot of old time grievances and petty peevishness. They spent several weeks pulling together for the same purpose and that is always profitable.

San Clemente is "going to town," if it maintains the fine spirit that was demonstrated during its three-day fiesta.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

Magazine editorships a few years ago fell only to the seasoned workers who had reached or passed a shade beyond middle years. Youth might write but it could not edit. Or so it was believed. But today the picture is vastly changed.

Young men are in the editorial saddle and riding hard. H. P. Burton, of Cosmopolitan, could play on stage or screen without a make-up. Herbert Mayes, of Pictorial Review, is in his 30's. Alfred Dashiell, who pilots the veteran Scribner's, is not 35.

When Otis Wiese assumed editorship of McCall's he might easily have been mistaken for the head office boy. In the editor's chair his feet scarcely touched the floor. He was in his early 20's and is now but 31. The editorial staff of Esquire is largely youngsters.

Even George Horace Lorimer has begun to ease up and let his hand-picked younger men run things a bit. Summer Blossom, of the American, is on the thither side of 40. And most of the pulps, the mystery, detective and love confession types have boyish editors.

Newspaper work has always been tagged "a young man's game." I have long doubted it. I believe it to be a slick chunk of propaganda of the bosses to make striplings work. To break a leg landing the story. The best writing, as W. R. Hearst often shows his staff today, is done by the more mature. Also the most capable news direction. Youngsters excel chiefly in nimbleness.

When Arthur Somers Roche passed away suddenly two of his serials were running in important magazines. He had finished neither. Her widow, associated with him by his name, completed one so capably she was asked by a national weekly for a complete mystery novel at top price. Four months later she had completed, had it accepted and was asked to do another. She is writing under the name of Ethel Pettit, her maiden name, under which she authored two novels before her husband's passing.

Rosie, the pachyderm star of "Jumbo," is the idol of big company at the Hippodrome. During the long drawn rehearsals she proved herself the best of trouper and you'll find yourself with a cold clamor. Her mahout is an Austrian who has served as her keeper for 12 years, sleeps in her pit nightly and walks through the streets two miles a day for exercise. Paul Whiteman, who has a way with elephants perhaps because he used to be one himself, is Rosie's favorite. She can always frisk him and find a tid-bit or so in his pockets. Rosie is a circus gal and has been around the world many times.

Boice Du Bois is still another one of those names. Trill it several times and you'll find yourself off on a long mumble. Du Bois is one of the many Bob Davis discoveries when Davis, instead of gallivanting around the globe, stayed put as a magazine editor. Du Bois once sent him a story accompanied by a letter, the lithograph heading of which suggested the blanket on last year's Derby Winner. Davis wrote: "Your story is rotten but I almost bought your letter head." Later on Du Bois sold him two serials and afterward became a regular contributor to leading magazines.

I was fascinated today by a "cocktail basket" in one of the swank grocery windows along the avenue. It was designed for the football season and seemed to contain everything save a kiddie car and an aspirin. The bottom of the contraption becomes a tray. In original shape it is hung with a combination jigger, bar spoon and bottle opener, a full-sized cocktail shaker, a book of cocktail receipts by Oscar. Also fresh limes, lemons, oranges, orange bitters, grenadine, cube sugar, mint cherries and green olives. Appetizers such as: Tins of crackers of paté de foie gras, a jar of smoked turkey and a tube of lobster paste, deviled ham, tins of skinless sardines, Norwegian bristlings, anchovies in oil, caviar, salted nuts, assorted caviarets and pretzels.

Starting out with a basket like that would never land me at a football game. It brings out the wolf in me. I'd be hiding behind a roadside bush for a grand gorge. (Copyright, 1935)

NEGRO ON JURY

42 OLD BIBLES

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The Jan. 15 Miami meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor will be quite different now that John L. Lewis has resigned. Upon this meeting hinges the inside story of why the shaggy-browed miner chief pulled his surprise coup.

The executive council session held each winter, shortly after congress convenes, is devoted to formulating a legislative program. Word reached Lewis that the inner circle of A. F. of L. bosses—William L. Hutchison of the carpenters, Arthur O. Wharton of the machinists, and Daniel J. Tobin of the teamsters—secretly planned to use this year's meeting for a concerted attack on Lewis and his industrial union allies.

Lewis then was in a definite minority on the council. Also, its deliberations always are held behind closed doors. This combination gave the Lewis' faction a beautiful set-up to "jump" him and make him like it.

Lewis is the last man in the world to shrink from a fight. Although he intended eventually to discard his A. F. of L. vice presidency, he had not planned to do so at this time. But with the anti-industrial union clique scheming to put him in a hole, Lewis decided to beat them to the punch.

That is the whole story. IMPERSONAL. LEWIS' resignation reports that the result of a bitter personal feud with President Bill Green were wide of the mark. There is no lost between the two men. But there is no vendetta between them.

This is so for a number of reasons: (1) Green, a kindly, well-meaning mediocrity, is largely a figurehead in the inner A. F. of L. council. The real bosses are Hutchison, Wharton and Tobin. (2) Green used to be a miner, is a member of Lewis' union and as such under the thumb of Lewis, the union president.

At the Atlantic City convention, Green sided with the old guard coterie. But his vote as a delegate, under the unit rule in force, was cast by Lewis against the craft unionites. Finally, Green is entirely dependent upon Lewis for his seat as a delegate. If, next year, Lewis turns thumbs down on Green as a miner delegate, that winds him up, and automatically bars him as a candidate for re-election as president of the A. F. of L.

In brief, Green cannot afford to war personally with Lewis. He has not, and is not doing so. He is merely trying to hold on to his well-paying job—and is having a most unhappy time doing it.

BRAZIL REVOLT. BRAZIL'S ambassador to the United States, Oswaldo Aranha, once was an intimate associate of the man who is leading the present revolt in Brazil, Luis Carlos Prestes. They were revolutionary comrades in arms before the 1930 upset, in which Ambassador Aranha was a leader.

"Prestes came to me," says Aranha, "just before we made our attack, and offered to go along with us on two conditions. We must declare for anti-imperialism, and a division of property. 'I told him, 'No, we cannot do that,' and he separated from us. But he is a very visionary fellow.' On the first day of the present revolt, Aranha forecast that it would be short-lived. He said: "They will fail because they did not succeed with the first blow. In revolutions, the first blow is everything. I know. You do not know about revolutions, but I know. I have had experience!"

Note—Ambassador Aranha led five revolutions, succeeded in putting President Vargas in Rio de Janeiro, has two pieces of lead in his side and shoulder.

LONG SWIM

THE ITALO-ETHIOPIAN war is "out of bounds" for the RFC. This is the dictum of RFC Chairman Jesse Jones. Asked if his agency would bring pressure on debtor nations not to carry war materials destined for the East African combatants, Jesse replied:

"The RFC is not mixing up in that fracas. There is no reason for it to do so. If any of the railroads can deliver goods, I say, more power to 'em."

Jesse amplified this statement with the following story: "During the Spanish-American war, a Texas horse dealer contracted to sell the government ponies for $50 a head. A friend, hearing about the deal, went to the trader and protested.

"Jim," he said, "how have you got the heart to charge Uncle Sam $50 a piece for horses you sell ordinarily for only $25?"

"Well," was the reply, "it's this way. When I sell the horses to my Texas friends I can count on about half of them running away and coming back to me. But I'm afraid none of these government ponies will do that. It's too long a swim back from Cuba."

WHITE HOUSE SUPPORT

TWO YEARS ago Marvin McIntyre, presidential secretary, wrote a letter of indorsement for an unemployed school teacher named Roy Arnold. Arnold once had taught McIntyre's son. He took the letter from one government office to another, finally gave up and went on relief.

Last week he set out to try again. He went to Democratic national committee headquarters, presented his old letter from McIntyre. A clerk there wrote a memo for him, reading, "This man has the indorsement of the White House. Do everything you can for him."

He was sent to Resettlement administration, where he was politely asked, "Will you accept $1500 a year to start?" He accepted.

Howdy, folks! Wednesday, Dec. 25, will be Christmas day. And Thursday, Dec. 26, will be "Exchange - The - Presents - You - Received - And - Have - No - Use - For" day.

WONDER BOY. Li'l Gee Gee's sweetie is a remarkable boy. He can play the saxophone—and doesn't.

And then there was the speakeasy proprietor who found times so hard that he had to fire three cops.

YE DIARY. Mighty early up, and to the kitchen. And anon Dame Juice doth call, "What are you doing out there, zany?" And I do reply, "I'm starting the kitchen fire for you, dearie." Which do be a great fib, as she doth well know, for she doth dash out in a hurry, and catch me devouring pieces of last night's roast. And so high words between us, and I do stalk out of the room with vast dignity, but anon do sneak back and peek through the door, and find Dame Juice nibbling on the roast. And so we, laughing heartily, to eating cold roast beef.

Remarkable Remarks

As long as politics interferes, or the sweatshop government projects, or other hangovers of the old system prevail, we will always have labor troubles.—W. B. Stout, head of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

This shouting down of people and refusing to hear arguments is the seed of dictatorship. No democracy can live where opposition views are not tolerated.—Stanley Baldwin.

If we can afford to pay the farmers for plowing up their wheat and cotton and for killing their pigs, why can't we afford to pay munition makers to stop making guns and shells that may some day kill our children?—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler.

Out in the California we think Hoover is a nice country gentleman, but that he should stay in the country.—Upton Sinclair, Epic leader.

When Hitler began, Germany lay prostrate at the feet of the Allies. We may yet see the day when what is left of Europe will be prostrate at the feet of Germany.—Winston Churchill.

There's nothing artificial about Mr. Roosevelt's smile. It is not a cultivated smile. He is cultured—a fine character. Whenever I go out of the way to do little things for him he says, "That's nice of you, thank you!"—I. H. McDuffie, the president's valet.

Public Needs Protection Against Protectors

A FIRE truck, hundred feet in length, screeched through a traffic stop with a sharp left turn and went streaking down the boulevard. It missed one motorist by inches and forced another against the curb. Cars "froze" in their tracks at the blood-curdling siren, but the most alert driver can not be quite sure from which direction the red streak is coming or from which side street the demon will jump.

IN VIOLATING every traffic rule at this busy crossing the fire truck saved about five seconds on its trip. Lives were endangered, the truck itself courted danger, decency was flouted, the public's interest ignored. Few fire alarms can be so urgent that such risks must be taken. In this particular case it was a false alarm anyhow.

THIS tendency of public officials to beat the law is much too common. Motorcycle officers may be seen riding two or three abreast, chatting about this or that, weaving their precarious way through heavy traffic. Law respecting motorists yield them the right of way. With all the flair of the small boy tooting a new horn these guardians of the

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town. With C. F. SKIRVIN.

Frank Pierce, Santa Ana impresario, goes back to Chicago this week to lead the music for the American farmers, who are to hold a convention for the purpose of continuing an indefinite existence. I presume Frank will use such old time favorites as "Coming Through the Rye," the 1936 presidential war song, "Old Pal Why Don't You Answer Me?", the processing professional, "Way Down South in the Land of Cotton," the relief reverie, "Just a Song at Twilight," the alphabetical anagram, "Please Wake Annie," and that old national inquiry, "Where Do We Go From Here." And if he gets back home looking the same way he did when he left town, I'll know how the grass roots states are going to vote without waiting for the Literary Digest poll.

Los Angeles woman decides after being cognizant of an alleged infidelity on the part of her husband for the past twenty years, that she better shoot him. Where she made her mistake is that she didn't shoot him the first year. I've never yet found a substitute for honesty, whether it's domestic or material.

Been looking for Supervisor John Mitchell. I've decided to go fishing and a friend of mine says, "Don't go until you see Mitchell; he can tell you more about piscatorial perfection than any man in Orange county, unless it's Dr. Cushman, and he isn't in Orange county now." But what I can't understand about the whole affair is that all my friends tell me no matter what Mitchell says, to take along a rain coat. Now I just got to see Mitchell.

Listen! the other night to some fellow tell over the radio about shivering jello, and he put it over with such convincing realism that I could hardly resist the temptation to ask Wadsworth to send me an overcoat.

Ed. Huston, who is in a position to read postal cards which go through the Huntington Beach office, sends me an invitation to help dedicate a new government building next Saturday, Dec. 7. Can't see why I should be included in this service except that I'm paying taxes over there on a fractional interest in some oil lots. However, it was nice of Ed. to remember me. I'll bring my own stamps. I'm a stickler for patronizing home industries.

Frank Harwood has agreed to open the postoffice door, so I can get in occasionally. Used to annoy Terry Stephenson and now Harwood agrees to continue the interruption until such time as government officials want his time and the office, and then I'm to let my conscience be my guide.

Called at the office of the chief of police in the new city hall and my understanding is that the same rules will be adopted there as applied to the Santa Ana headquarters, which means that anyone having business will be welcome, and even those who are not on friendly terms will sometimes be given an audience. Chief of police offices are that way.

When Barney Koster invites Claude McDuffie to lunch he hears it. He's the trouble is he has a poor memory. That's why the follow-up system comes in handy.

Christmas is so near that I'm uncomfortable. I may disappoint some one but it won't be John Lamb. Sent what's coming to him, at least until next April. Why in the world do they want taxes to come due just before Santa Claus arrives—or is supposed to arrive? There couldn't be a more certain way of taking the joy out of life.

Noticed something in the papers lately about the "House of Magic." Guess that's along the line of the haunted house—or is it? But on further investigation find out it has to do with electrical equipment. That's where my shock comes in. If someone will just provide a system whereby all you have to do is press a button to get the food, there is enough equipment to do the rest. "The old kitchen ain't what it used to be."

Everything is square with Joe Steel now. Got my twenty cents back. It cost me ten cents to do it. Now I'm thirty cents to the bad. The more I deal with that bird the more interesting the transaction becomes.

Two more elections this month. School bonds, the twelfth, and water bonds the nineteenth, and then didn't I see something about the government going to offer $900,000,000 in bonds and I can't buy ninety cents worth? Our school bonds slogan should be "get the boys out of the tents by 'erinnas," and water bonds to remove the ranchers druth.
